

To say it was a good year for Enactus Aryabhata would be an understatement, and here's how.

-Enactus Aryabhata , got selected to be mentored by one of the Big fours themselves, KPMG, who let us a view of all the challenges we must expect while going forward with our Project Utkarsh along with valuable feedback and suggestions which has helped us take our project to greater heights.

-We started a collection drive for old clothes and papers that wasn't useful to some but still in condition to use for others. "One man's trash is another man's treasure" is what we instate. We installed dropboxes all around our campus and got a great response from everyone. Most of the decoration material used and products sold at Enactus Day were made from these.

Another achievement for the Enactus family at Aryabhata was the second edition of Enactus day where we put up stalls for various products, one of them being our very own snack going by the name Veggitos under Project Utkarsh, we had fun activities for engaging the crowd. The response was unexpected and overwhelming. The even got covered by several Delhi University newspapers.

-After months of patient waiting, we are extremely glad to announce that now our Veggitos is FSSAI approved/certified which gives us a green signal to sell it across different avenues and increase it's popularity further.

There has been training sessions in Springdales, Pusa road, for Project Utkarsh, as to "how to make the wafers" and recruit the women willing to work with us and get ahead in the social heirarchy.

-Enactus Aryabhata , in collaboration with Youth for Seva NGO, participated in an interactive and fun-filled initiative called "Story-fied" wherein members of our team went to a school run for underprivileged children to teach them certain important morales and values through means of story telling to make it interesting . Our members returned with smiles on their faces from all the love and warmth they received from the kids and with a stronger determination to carry the spirit of enactus forward.

-We also went forward with Pehchaan, an initiative where we approached people with different lifestyles, background and communities to listen to their diverse life stories and provided a platform where help can be delivered to those in need.

-Another feather in the cap, is our new project, Zariya, here we aim to employ these able bodied beggars as domestic help in households not only ensuring them a continuous income but also making sure they have a roof over their heads. Converting domestic help into a profession driven by contractual agreements and employee benefits that come with any other high paying jobs, Enactus Aryabhata plans to completely revolutionize the domestic help industry.

Enactus Aryabhata has also been participating in various inter-college B-plan competitions for project Utkarsh & Zariya and it hasn't failed to win even once.

On 5th February, 2018 Enactus Aryabhata ranked 2nd in the B-plan competition held by Guru Gobind Singh Indraprastha University in collaboration with Enactus IGDTUW and Enactus SBCS. This was the first win for Project Utkarsh as it continues to improve its performance.

Enactus Aryabhata surprised it's audience yet again on 23rd February, 2018 when Enactus Ramanujan held Enactus day at Vallabhai Patel Chest. Once again, Project Utkarsh bags the 2nd position. The project is getting bigger and better than ever before and this is proved by great appreciation by all our judges.

On 21st March, 2018 Enactus Aryabhata college was declared the runner-up at social B-plan competition organised by Shaheed Bhagat Singh college evening.

And again on 28th March, 2018 at Aurobindo college, Project Utkarsh wins 3rd position. Our new project Zariya was also presented at the same B-plan competition and both the projects were highly appreciated by all Enactus teams and judges.

We are proud to announce all the four continuous wins for Project Utkarsh and look forward when our Veggitos will flourish and through the markets!
